German distributor for James Fisher Asset Information Services's R2S Forensic

James Fisher Asset Information Services Ltd. (JF AIS), part of James Fisher and Sons plc announces a new distributor arrangement with German based abf diagnostics.

abf diagnostics will drive the sale of JF AIS's revolutionary digital twin solution within Germany, Austria and Switzerland focussing on its existing customer base, federal, state and local law enforcement agencies.

R2S has now been placed within a local German Police Force and has received positive feedback on its ease of use as a crime scene management and evidence collation tool. It is hoped that there is further uptake throughout 2018.

Laura Fairley, JF AIS's Market Development Manager says;

'I am excited to be working with abf diagnostics to bring R2S to a wider audience. It is great that new markets and partners are discovering the potential R2S offers in terms of innovation, accuracy and efficiency.'

abf diagnostics is a leader in the provision of solutions to the law enforcement market in Germany and its neighbouring states and I am looking forward to developing this burgeoning relationship. Widening our market coverage allows us to foster a true understanding of the challenges facing potential clients and the opportunity to provide solutions in this space.'

Dr. Franz Aberl, Managing Director of abf diagnostics, went on to comment:

'Bringing our market knowledge together with the R2S technology for crime scene visualisation in the virtual world is a perfect fit and will provide exciting new business opportunities. We are especially pleased with the rapid and successful introduction of the R2S technology in our law enforcement community and the excellent support by JF AIS.'
